12 Spring Writing Activities

About this Writing Activity Set

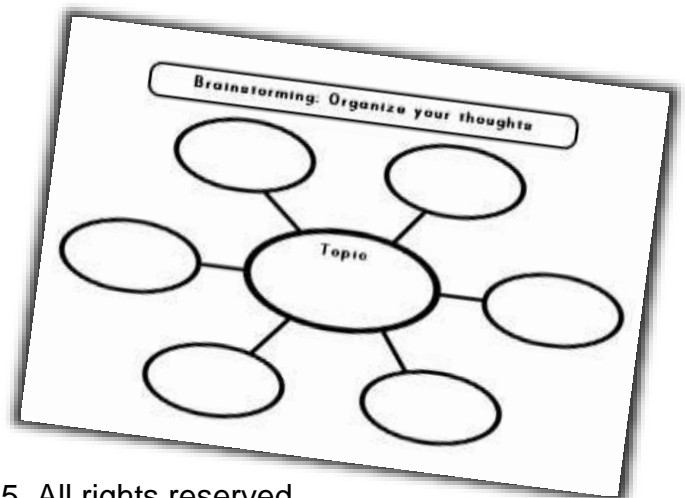

Thank you for purchasing this worksheet set of writing activities. Writing is one of the most important things we can teach our young ones. This set is designed to give students some practice writing about a theme or topic. These are good for writing practice, starting a classroom conversation, a fast finisher task, an assignment for homework, and more.

There is also a bank themed writing activity at the bottom that you can choose what the student should write about. You can set a word limit, a time limit, or any other criteria for this assignment in your classroom. You could also hang these on the walls of your classroom to show off your students work or just decorate the classroom. Have fun with these and enjoy writing creatively.

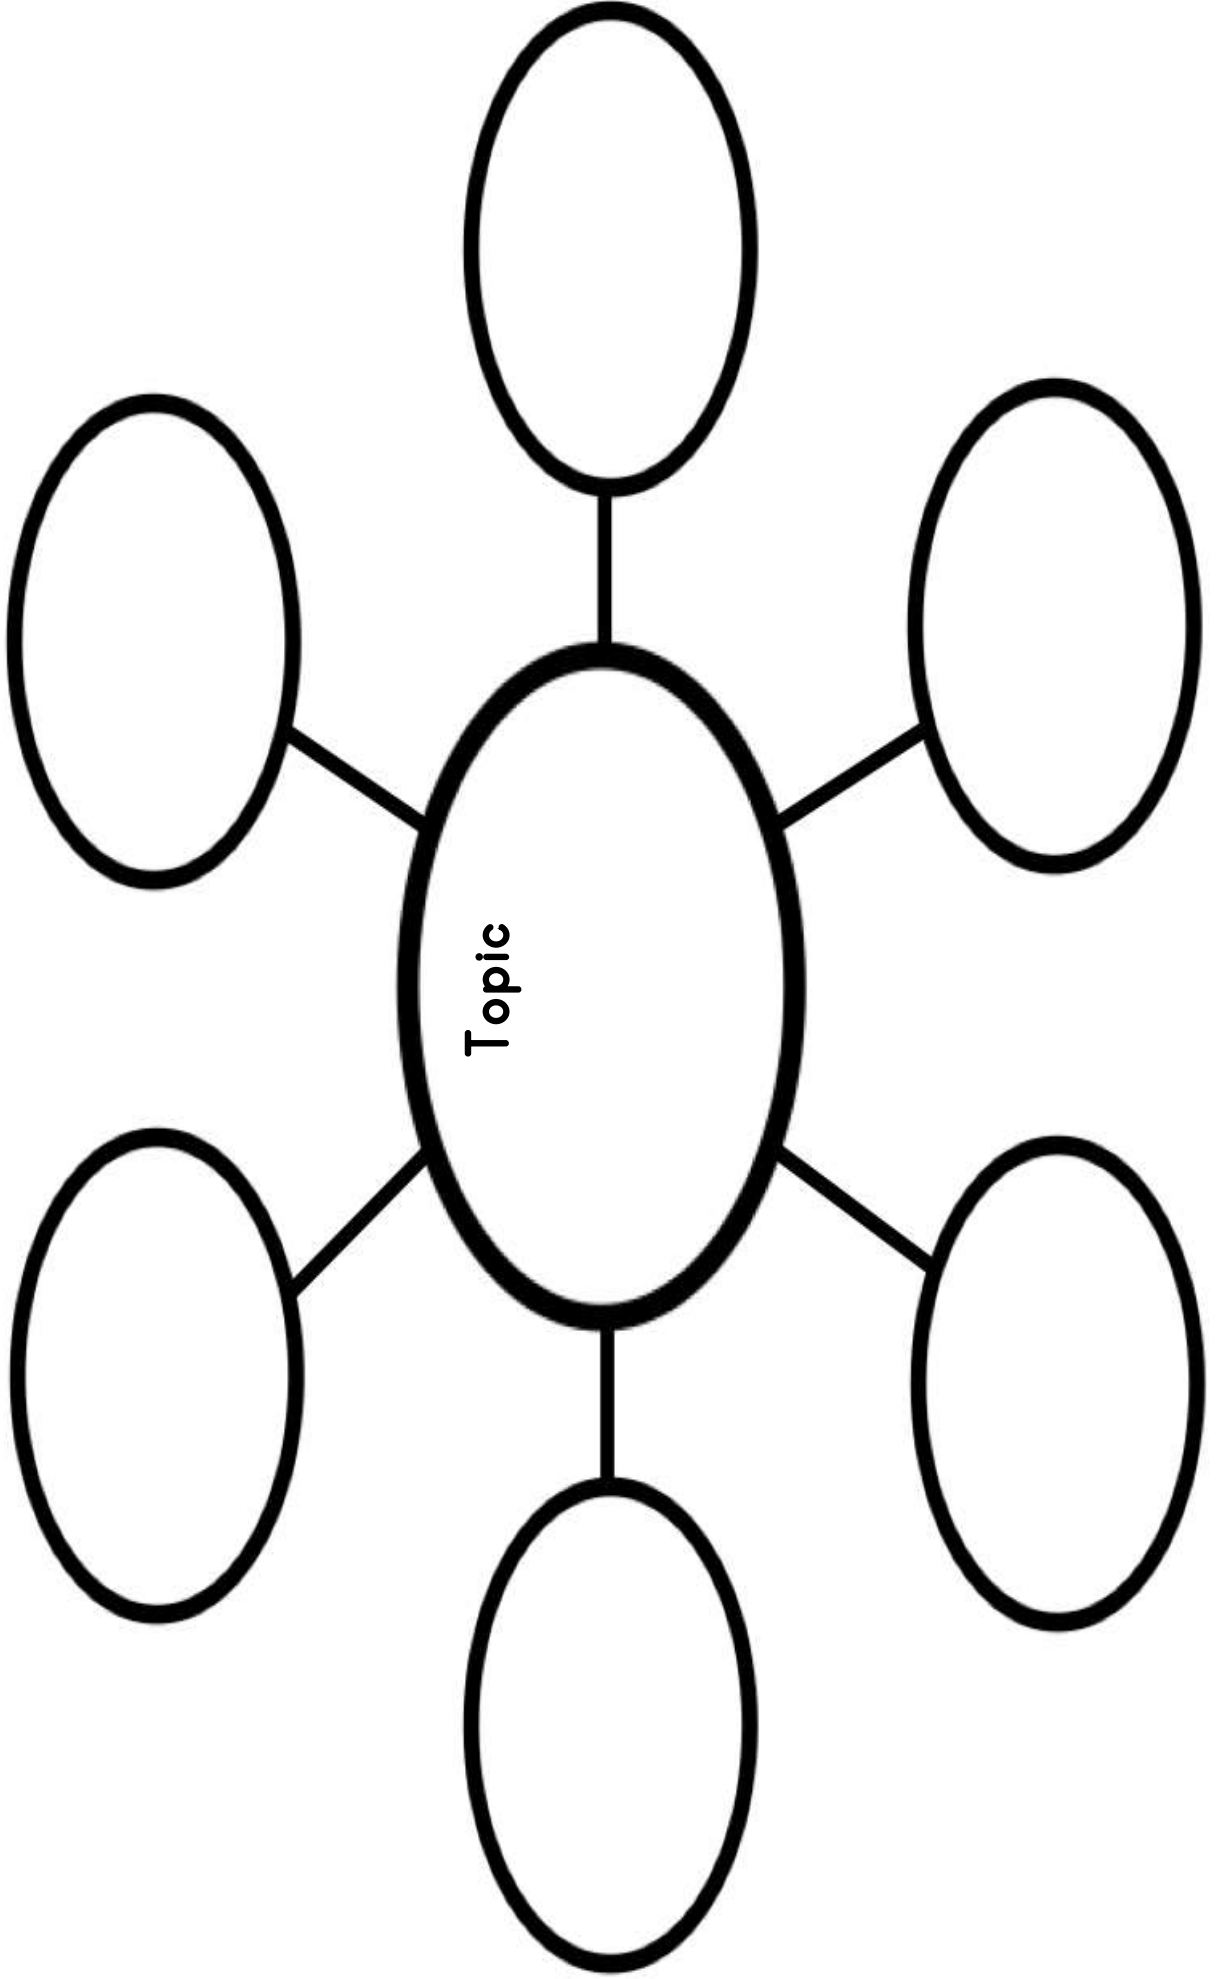

Below is a list of other topics you could have your learners write or talk about.

- You see a rainbow and you follow it to where it touches the ground. What do you find at the end of the rainbow?
- What do you do with your friends in the park?
- Spring is a time of year for cleaning the house. What do you do to clean your room? Do you help your parents clean the house?
- You are outside playing and see rabbits eating the grass. What should you do?
- Your mom and dad want to take you out for ice cream. What flavor do you like to eat?

Also included in this set is a brainstorming idea chart to help young writers come up with ideas before they put pencil to paper. This can help get the creative juices flowing. Have fun writing!
